ALUMNI OF THE UNION SEMINARY.

The Alumni Association of the Union Theological Seminary held its annual meeting Tuesday at No. 9 University-place. The Rev. Dr. Freeman, of Havestraw, presided. The Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, president of the Seminary, spoke of its work and of the new buildings, which will probably be finished in two years. Dr. S. W. Dana delivered an address on the future supply of ministers. He said that the causes deterring men from the ministry were the causes deterring men from the ministers. He east was been clearly were the facility that the profession is overcrowded, a shrinking from "candidating," the inadequate support of the ministry, a lack of deep piety on the part of the ministry, a lack of deep piety on the part of the parents of young men, and a lack of full consocration on the part of Christian young men. General discussion on the subject of the paper followed, the Rev. Drs. Hitchcock, Sloedd, Adams, Griffin, Wallace and others participating.

The Rev. Dr. C. W. Bairl then read a mortnary paper, giving the history of ten graduates of the Seminary who have ded in the last year. They were Samuel R. Brown, '38; Daniel Elston Magee, '39; James M. Bruch, '42; W. H. Magee, '45; D. C. Mecker, '46; Justus W. Parsons, '48, who was murdered by savages in Turkey; S. S. Goodwin, '50; M. Willett, '58; J. F. Donaldsen, '72; and William Brewster Ely, '78.

There was an air of mystery at the Mayor's office Tuesday morning. Mayor Grace was closeted in his private room with several anxious politicians, while three or four more were waiting in the outer effice to see him, endeavoring to appear unconcerned about the probable nominations. The Police Commissioners entered the office, accompanied by their counsel, a few minutes after 11, looking unconcerned and happy. Mr. Blim and Mr. Bartlett were rediant and fragrant with button-hole bouquets. The Mayor came in later, looking somewhat were by his continued consultations.

William H. Kipp, first deputy clark of the Police Department, was the first witness. Mr. Andrews caked him to read the minutes of the Police Board, May 21, 1877, Mr. Bartlett objected, as usual, but his objection was overruled, also as usual. Mr. Andrews cald that he expected to prove two things. The Commissioners were charged with having failed to expecte asks from garbage. Their counsel claimed that they were not bound to do this according to the law of 1872. He proposed to show that the Board had assumed this duty and that it had pended claberate rules for accomplishing it. The Commissioners were also charged with having failed to uncertain maintary cardinates. He proposed to show that the Board mand claberate rules based on thom and that it provides the duty of carrying them out.

Mr. Eige then med the miss, and regulations of 1

the Department governing the Street-Cleaning Bureau and ordering the enforcement of the sanitary ordinances of the Board of Health. This occupied early all the morning session. Mr. Root began the cross-examination of Mr. Kipp after the noon recess, by setting him at work read-

Mr. Root began the cross-examination of Mr. Kipp after the noon recess, by setting him at work reading the rules and regulations of the Police Department in force from 1873 to 1877. When it was completed there was a suspension of hostilities for fifteen minutes, while Mr. Root examined fourteen penderous volumes of records of the Police Department, containing all arrests from May 20, 1879, to April 2, 1880. Mr. Root finally said that he should have occasion to use them in the future, and he would like to have them marked for identineation.

Mr. Bliss next stated that the Commissioners wished to introduce as evidence some 200 or 300 books, of the same size as the fourteen already mentioned (the Mayor here wilted perceptibly), containing the records of the violations of corporation ordinances. Mr. Andrews objected on the ground that they were immaterial and irrelevant and on the ground, also, that they could not be introduced on the cross-examination. The Mayor brightened up and sustained the objection. Mr. Root then came to the front, and giving one of the books to Mr. Kipppointed to an item which stated that somebody was arrested in 1879 for some offence and fined $1 by Justice Morgan.

"Is that correct?" he asked of the witness, with the remark that he should go through the fourteen Brooks in that manner. Mayor Grace collapsed again. Mr. Andrews came to the rescue and promptly objected.

Mr. Root declared that the counsel for the Commissioners proposed to show that the Police Department had not had the necessary cooperation from the Department. This could only be done by the records.

"Gentlemen," interrupted the Mayor, with a sigh, "this is a serious matter, and 1 will take time to cousider it. We will now adjourn until Friday at 11 a. in.

DAVIS ON STONEWALL JACKSON.

New-Orleans, May 11.—At the conclusion of the ceremonics attending the dedication of the tomb of the Association of the Army of Northern Virginia and the unveiling of the statue of Stonewall Jackson yester-day afternoon, at Metairie Cemetery, Jefferson Davis, day afternoon, at Metairie Cemetery, Jefferson Davis, referring to Jackson, said:

From the academic shades of the milliary institute he went forth to battle for the cause of State rights, as if Government and Constitutional liberty. Nobody expected that this quiet professor would have an opportunity to show the great qualities he possessed and become the great hero of our war. To-day he stands in the opinion of Europeans, so far as I know it, the mightiest chieftian of the Confederate cause. This silent professor constantly rose like a meteor over the battlefields of the Confederacy—only like a meteor in its brightness; for his light was steady as the orb of day. It should to have close, increasing in brilliancy and in the trust which the people reposed upon it. Such was Jackson. He lived for his country, never doubting the justice of his cause, believing it was righteous, and trusting in it, he died, as I live to-day, feeling that the Confederacy ought to have succeeded, because it was founded on truth and justice. He gave his life for the whole country, and the country gave its heart to Jackson. You, the men upon whom he cannel in the hour of danger, in honoring him also honor yourselves.

THE COURTS.

SEEKING AN ACCOUNTING FROM HIS WIFE. George H. Higgins was a bookkeeper for A.
T. Stewart & Co. from 1855 to 1879, beginning with a salary of $1,200, which was gradually increased until it was $4,000. Mr. Stewart left him a legacy of $10,000.
He has brought a suit in the Supreme Court, the trial of which was begin vesterially before Justice Legacy of He has brought a suit in the Supreme Court, the trial of which was begun yesterday before Justice Larremore, at Special Term, to compet his wife, his two stepdaughters and one child of the stepdaughters, to account to him for moneys they have received from him and of which they are, as he claims, trustees. During the time he was with A. T. Stewart & Co., he says in his complaint, he received more than $120,000, the greater part of which found its way into his wife's hands, it being understood that a fond should be derived from it for his support found its way into his wife's hands, it being understood that a fund should be derived from it for his support when old. An agreement of separation was made between them in 1868, but they were afterward reconciled. In 1879 he was compelled by ill-health to give up his place at A. T. Stewart & Co.'s, and then his wife began to ill-treat him. She fundly secured his incarceration in the Middletown Asylum for Lunatics; although he was not insane. Since his release he has been fill and able to earn only $12 a week as a clerk, and his wife has not aided him. He seeks an accounting for the moneys received by his wife and the other defendants. The answer of Mrs. Higgins sets up the agreement of separation, by which she was to receive $1,200 a year, and she says that aside from such yearly amount she has received nothing from him excepting what he has given her upconditionally. Mr. Higgins was a witness yearerday. He gave many incidents of his domestic troubles. A. G. Hull appears for Mr. Higgins; Mesars. Hall & Blandy for the defendants.

THE COST OF PATENT INFRINGEMENT. BOSTON, May 11.—The report of Thomas William Clark as Master in Chancery, to whom was re-BOSTON, May 11.— The report of Inomas William Clark, as Master in Chancery, to whom was referred the suit of Helen M. McDonald against John Shepard et al, has just been made. This was a suit begun in the Circuit Court of the United States, Massachusetts District, August, 1876, against the firm of Shepard, Norwell & Co., of this city, for an infringement of a patent of a skirt-protector, the property of the plaintiff. A decree was made in the plaintiffs favor last October, and an order for an account was issued. The akirt-protector sold by Shepard, Norwell & Co. was also sold by many other firms, and was manufactured by Sidenberg & Co., of New-York. Sidenberg & Co. gave to purchasers of their goods a guarantee of indemnity from losses or damages which they might incur or become liable for through selling them. The question for the Master to decide was the assessment of damages upon the defendants in due proportion to their saics. The report states that the whole business of Sidenberg & Co. during the time of infringement was $220,000, of which the business in Bostom was from one fourth to one dith. The Master holds—and this is the important feature of the report—that all the damage caused by an intringing manufacturer by putting into the market through dealers infringing goods, is liable to be assessed against any of the dealers to whom he has given a bond of indemnity. He accordingly finds; "That the defendants, by the selling of the Sidenberg goods under a bond of indemnity, are responsible for all the goods made by Sidenberg; and that those soles damaged complainant to the amount of more than $50,000."

A MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

A MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

Judge Cullen, in Brooklyn yesterday, annulled the marriage of Mrs. Faunie F. Tinker and John T. Tinker. They were married in 1871 in London, where Mr. Tinker passed by the name of Loslie. After coming to this country be took the name of John H. Thomas, and in 1875 was a lawyer in the firm of Dailey, Perry & Thomas. In 1875 he took his wife to his father's home in Ohio, she having learned that his real name was Tinker. While there she learned that her husband had been married in 1869. As he asserted that he was divorced before she married him she continued to live with him. Afterward she learned that he divorce was not secured until 1871. In 1877 Mr. Tinker was sent to Elinekwell's bland for forcy for eighteen monties. Subsequently his wife sought to secure a divorce, and was told by her husband that unless she remarried him she could not secure a divorce. This she did. Both marriages are set aside—the first by reason of the previous marriage, and the second for fraud.

THE BREWEES IN CONVENTION.

CHICAGO, May 11 .- The twenty-first annual convention of the United States Brewers' Association is the Chicago Brewers' Association. An andress was delivered by Herman B. Scharmann, of Brooklyn, N. Y., acting president of the Association, who presented a vast array of figures to show the steady increase of the brewing business. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1863, the ag-regate production of fermented liquors was 1,765,827 barrels, while for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1863, the total production was 13,317,110 barrels—an increase since the Internal Revenue Department fook comizance of the business of early 12,000,000 barrels. After noting this great increase of business the address also deals with the dangers that threaten it, which are also increasing, and refers to the law recently passed in Kansse, forbidding the manufacture and saic of aiceholic beverages, and to temperance movements in Iowa. Minuceota, Michigan, Wisconstu, Ohlo, Indiana, North and South Carelina and New-York. After referring to temperance laws as "pernicious, mischievous and degrading enactments," Mr. Scharmann said: "It is for us to show, and by means of our Association, that there is a limit to this foolishness; that the majority of mankind are quite able to take care of themselves; and that the faulits of the few are by no means a good reasen for punishing the many. The practical suggestion I would offer is that your executive be empowered to extend aid and encouragement to its members in any State, when such laws robbod them of their privileges and property, to fight them to the very end by proving their unconstitutionality, and by holding them up to the execution and ridicule of all reasonable people."
